The Free Seat Question.

(To the Editor.) In your last number you say you hear nothing further on the subject of rentng church pews, and as I have read nothing that seemed fully to meet the question, I take the liberty of submitting a about $150. few thoughts for the consideration of a pastor of a church is not "employed" or "hired" or related to his people as a person who is engaged to work for wages, which is a common but erroneous opinion. He is called of God to preach, and the place where he does so is, or should be, indicated by the providence of God. The people have no right to call a pastor, nor he a right to accept, unless both have good reason to believe they have the leading of God's spirit. The arrangenent, when entered into, is governed by to "live of the gospel" and "the laborer MACKINAW AND CHEBOYGAN is worthy of his hire." A minister is to advance Christ's kingdom on earth, and the employ of his congregation. When munity he is seeking the best interests days. of the people there residing; and because the members of that church and > community believe this is why they contribute to his support. I have written of this somewhat length, because the pastor's salary is the chief item of expense. The renting of pews I believe is just as proper as to rent a house to live in, and the only matter to consider is which is the most feasible plan to obtain preaching and other instruction respecting our eternal welfare. room of our churches occupied, and ceived their papers. every one who will attend may be sure

Harbor Improvements. We understand that Messrs. Carkin. Stickney & Cram have made arrangements with Messrs, E. T. Those in use were put up by private parties and have answered their purpose, but they were designed for only temporary use, and solely for the benefit of the local traffic. But now as there is a prospect of a good entrance to the port, it is certainly desirable that larger and better lights be established, and if it is expected to have the regular lines on the lakes stop here, there must be sufficiently powerful lights shown to enable them to make the harbor without difficulty.

BURNED OUT .- Sometime during last Tuesday night Thomas Dougherty, constore, effected his escape by burning a hole in the walls of the jail large enough, by tight squeezing, to let him out, and decamped. Whether he had become dissatisfied with the bill of fare furnished him, or finding his hotel not very well patronized, and not being of a solitary temperament did not enjoy his retirement, is not known; but the fact is that, notwithstanding the ties that bound him to induce him to remain the winter in arrived home on the St. Joe Friday. this community, he has departed.
